

Dr. James S. Rinehart is presently Chair of the Educational Leadership and Policy Studies Department at Eastern Kentucky University. He holds a Ph.D. in Administration and Supervision from The Ohio State University, a MAT in Mathematics Education, and a B.S. with a mathematics major from Bluffton College (now Bluffton University). He began his career as a mathematics teacher for 9 years followed by becoming a high school principal for 13 years. After receiving his doctoral degree, he taught at Auburn University for 3 years and the University of Kentucky for 15 years. He is now in his 2nd full year at EKU. His research interests include leadership and organizational behavior in schools. Dr. Rinehart teaches research methods, proposal writing, organizational theory, and leadership courses.